2020 Economic Impact Payment Information

Use these amounts to calculate any Recovery Rebate Credit on your Tax Year 2020 return. (?)

If you file as Married Filing Jointly, each spouse should see their own amount within their own account. All amounts must be considered if filing jointly in 2020.

[redacted]

2021 Economic Impact Payment Information

Do not use this information when filing your 2020 tax return.

The American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) of 2021 authorized a third round of Economic Impact Payments. (?)

Your payment amount shown here is for payments issued so far. It may be zero and updated later, including for use when filing your 2021 tax return next year.

If we issue you multiple advanced payments, only the most recent amount is shown and may be updated. If you filed as Married Filing Jointly, this is the combined amount for both spouses based on your 2019 or 2020 tax return.

Authorizations

You can authorize a third party to help you with your federal tax matters. There are 2 types of authorizations:

- Power of Attorney – Authorize an individual to represent you in tax matters before the IRS and to review or receive your confidential tax information for the tax matters and years you specify.
- Tax Information Authorization – Designate an individual, corporation, firm, organization or partnership to receive your confidential tax information for the tax matters and years you specify.

You still must meet your tax obligations when you authorize someone to represent you.

More about third-party authorizations

Online Authorization Requests

You have no online requests for authorization from a tax professional.

How to Authorize a Third-Party

To grant Power of Attorney or Tax Information Authorization to a third-party:

- Ask your tax professional to request authorization online. Approve or reject the authorization here in your IRS online account; or
- Complete and submit a form:
  - Form 2848, Power of Attorney and Declaration of Representative
  - Form 8821, Tax Information Authorization

How to Authorize More than One Third-Party

To authorize more than one third-party for a specific tax matter or period:

- Have each third-party submit an authorization request to your IRS online account
- Sign all of the online authorization requests on the same day
- Only 2 third-parties can receive copies of your IRS notices and communications for each authorization type

If you already have an authorization recorded for a specific tax matter or period:

- Any authorization you sign online for the same tax matter, tax period and authorization type will revoke the prior authorization.
- To keep the prior authorization and add new authorizations, submit a form instead:
  - Form 2848, Power of Attorney and Declaration of Representative
  - Form 8821, Tax Information Authorization

How to Revoke Authorization

When you revoke authorization:

- Power of Attorney – The tax professional will no longer receive your confidential tax information or represent you before the IRS for the matters and periods listed in the authorization.
- Tax Information Authorization – The designee will no longer receive your confidential tax information for the matters and periods listed in the authorization.

There are 2 ways to revoke authorization:

1. Approve an online authorization request from a new third-party for the same tax matters, periods and authorization type.
2. Send a revocation to the IRS:
   - Print a copy of the authorization. Use you browser's Print function.
   - Write "revoke" on the top
   - Sign and date it
   - Fax, mail or submit it online to the IRS. Use How to File instructions:
     - Form 2848, Power of Attorney and Declaration of Representative
     - Form 8821, Tax Information Authorization
